PROFILE

A frontend developer, passionate about web development and building exceptional web applications. University graduate but also love being self-taught and always with a keen interest for technology, innovation, creativity and personal growth. As a developer I have hands-on experience with the technologies, frameworks and libraries listed here, however I'm constantly striving to improve my skill set. Previous work experience in other industries have instilled in me a high level of maturity and competence with regards to taking my own initiative, being a team player and having great responsibilities. I'm a trustworthy and driven individual who is very meticulous and with a great eye for detail, with an analytical mind, and always looking for a new challenge.
